January 6th Every November

Insurrections Have Their Consequences

The peaceful transition of power, more than any other practice or tradition, is the bedrock American democracy has stood upon for nearly 250 years. With the January 6 Treason the Republican party sank deep below that bedrock.

On January 6 the top leaders of the Republican party plotted to overthrow our democracy. Since that day, all Republicans in the US Senate and US Congress have either agreed to obstruct the investigation of the Republican coup leaders or have been removed from power in their party for refusing to do so.

Now, once again, the Republicans hold control of the US House of Representatives. Now is their chance to make this right or face the consequences. Investigate and hold accountable those from within their ranks who participated in the attempt to overthrow the 2020 election or in the coverup of those events since, or admit that the Republican party is still an ongoing threat to our democracy. The choice has never been more clear-cut.

The good news is that Republican voters want to be good people. They can be redeemed, but there's no sugarcoating the reality that they are now a threat to this country they love so very much. They need your help.

As a Cook, the admiration you've earned among the people around you goes far beyond what you imagine. Your years of kindness and compassion in caring for those in your life through the meals you cook have not been without impact nor gone unnoticed. People look to you for guidance and advice. They respect your wisdom.

If Republicans refuse to hold themselves accountable, that job falls on us. I believe in your ability to communicate the risk Republicans hold to our country with the same kindness and compassion you share when you cook. American Democracy Matters. You delivering this message with gentle firmness means all. Our way of life is in your hands.

Thanks for being you, — Bill
